

How to sign up for Army ROTC

When you have your virtual academic advising and course registration appointment this summer you will simply let your freshman academic advisor know that you are interested in taking Military Science 101 as one of your electives. Army ROTC will be listed in the course catalog as Military Science. Our freshman class is a one hour class, a two hour lab and an opportunity to attend morning physical training. You simply need to sign up for Military Science 101, Introduction to Military Science. (Here is the link to all of our Military Science classes:

<https://www.bsu.edu/academics/undergraduatestudy/catalog/current-year/collegesdeptprog/coh/militaryscience>)

You do not need special permission and there are no prerequisites for this class. Please keep this in mind.....You are simply "trying out" Army ROTC, you are not committing to anything except attending the class and lab for the fall semester. We will do our best to make sure you have all your questions answered and that your experience in our program is a positive one.

You can always check us out on our webpage www.bsu.edu/rotc or on our Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/BallStateROTC/> or follow us on Twitter @BSUROTC

The first thing we have on our schedule for the Fall '20 semester is our Welcome Weekend. After you have moved in to your dorm room, we invite you to spend Friday and Saturday (August 21st & 22nd) with us getting oriented to the campus and a quick introduction to the Army ROTC Program here at Ball State. You will get more information about the Welcome Weekend when we get closer to school starting.

We have an exciting year planned and look forward to making you part of it!

Please feel free to reach out to me if you have any questions at all.
